Many experienced poultrymen feel that it is almost useless to try to raise broods of chicks in very hot weather, so apt are the eggs to spoil before they can be hatched. But an old, old lady who has been in the business for years declares that perfect success is attained by setting the hen directly upon the ground. She scoops out a little hollow in the earth and places the eggs in it, without a particle straw around or beneath them. A shelter is provided, of course. She says the hen suffers less from heat or lice, and if the eggs have been fresh to start with, every one of them will be hatched even in the hottest weather.—National Magazine for June.

The Commonwealth moved to dismiss the warrants charging Judge James Hargis, Alex. Hargis and B. F. French with complicity in the murder of J. B. Marcum when the hearing of the accused was commenced at Jackson, County Attorney Blanton stating that the motion was made at the request of Dan Auster, father-in-law of the murdered man. The defendants objected, and Magistrate Burton overruled the motion. Magistrate Combs refused to preside owing to his relations with the Hargises.

"I say, cabby, I want you to drive me down to the Union station at noon and call for my mother-in-law. You know her. Bring her up here and I'll give you a dollar."

Cabman—Very good, sir. But suppose she doesn't arrive?

"In that case I'll give you $5."
